

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

On behalf of the Editorial Team, I wish to thank everyone that contributed to the success of this project. It is heartwarming to note that, in spite of the busy schedules and other constraints, all the authors were able to turn in their respective chapters within a short period. This shows how committed and responsive they are to research and academic excellence.

I would like to express my deep gratitude to our esteemed mentor and teacher, Professor Ode Ojowu, whose unwavering commitment and support are truly admirable. Despite the short notice, he graciously agreed to write the foreword for this significant publication, a gesture that reflects both his generosity and dedication to nurturing academic growth. His willingness to contribute in such a meaningful way is deeply appreciated and certainly not taken for granted.

To Professor Simeon Oko Ajegi, I acknowledge his contributions to the academic and human development of the Department of Economics, Benue State University, Makurdi. As a pioneer staff of the department, he has been hugely responsible for the impartation of knowledge of theory and practical applications of micro and macroeconomics to so many generations of students, some of whom are already authorities in the field of Economics. He has been a strong pillar of the department over the years and has contributed immensely to the development of human resources across the globe in direct and indirect ways.

I acknowledge the hard work of the Editorial Team of this project who meticulously reviewed and proofread the pages. I appreciate the financial contributions of authors, colleagues, family, and friends to support the production of this book. The Editorial Team takes responsibility for any flaws, while views are solely those of the authors.

Above all, I acknowledge the continued support of the Vice Chancellor, Benue State University, Professor Tor Joe Iorapuu, FSONTA, to the Department. His friendly disposition towards the Department has created an enabling environment for academic activities to thrive.

As we celebrate the successful retirement of our father, Professor Simeon Oko Ajegi, from active service today, may I, on behalf of the Department, pledge that we shall continue to leverage his intellect and ideas to grow the Department in leaps and bounds.
